The NMC have produced standards of proficiency for pre registration midwifery education and those standards have been written in an “academic” language, for higher education institutions. Each student prior to being admitted to the profession must have achieved the proficiencies stated in the NMC publication. The purpose of this book is to provide students with material related to the standards of midwifery education. The students will be able to use the contents of this text and relate it to their own approved programme of midwifery study, as their programme of study would have had to comply with NMC’s requirements. It will help student midwives appreciate how their own programmes have been designed, and why they are required to study and understand some of the subjects they are, or will be studying.

A great gift for someone special or of course yourself. A reflection journal for the student midwife. Being able to reflect upon ones practice is good for any upcoming healthcare practitioner. This journal allows you to reflect upon various encounters a student midwife will participate in, such as witnesses, catches, prenatal & postnatal care. Reflecting can help you to make sense of experiences you may encounter, the good and the ugly. Reflecting upon these will allow you to identify any areas for improvement, thus enabling you to create an action plan to implement those improvements into your everyday practice. This is a journal of reflection which can accompany you throughout your three years of training.

situations, and supporting information. Each topic includes further factors that involve recognition, prevention, and actions to take in an emergency situation that may be in the form of flow/action charts. The procedures that are included have an overview of the 'how to', (frequently including the preparation needed); and the 'why', supported by research or evidence, and Midwives' rules and standards (NMC 2004b) and The NMC code of professional conduct: standards for conduct, performance and ethics (NMC 2004a). The references used provide useful evidence to support practice. Finally, the supporting information is varied and ranges from details about Government and international initiatives to available support groups and useful websites.
